

Nova Health Premium - General Conditions

Standard coverage rules - synthetic demo document

1. Purpose and hierarchy

These General Conditions describe the standard rules of Nova Health Premium. The Particular Conditions identify the insured policy and contain values specific to the contract. Any endorsement takes precedence over both documents for the provision it expressly changes.

2. Definitions

Effective date. The date on which insurance coverage begins for a given policy, as stated in the Particular Conditions or a later endorsement. The term "effective date" describes the legal commencement of cover and does not itself state the date for any specific policy.

Annual limit. The maximum amount reimbursable during a policy year for a benefit, unless the relevant benefit is expressed as a number of sessions.

Deductible. The amount borne by the insured before reimbursement is calculated.

3. General eligibility

Expenses are eligible when they are medically necessary, incurred during the period of cover, supported by acceptable evidence and not excluded elsewhere in these Conditions.

4. Hospitalisation benefit

Hospitalisation reimburses eligible inpatient treatment up to the annual limit shown in the Particular Conditions. Room upgrades chosen for comfort rather than medical necessity are not reimbursed.

Emergency transport directly related to an eligible hospital admission is included when medically necessary.

5. Optical care

Optical care covers prescribed lenses and frames subject to the annual limit stated in the Particular Conditions. Non-prescription fashion eyewear is excluded.

6. Physiotherapy

Physiotherapy is eligible only when prescribed by a physician before treatment starts. The maximum number of sessions is shown in the Particular Conditions.

Massage performed solely for relaxation or wellbeing is not physiotherapy for the purposes of this contract.

7. Dental care

Dental care reimburses clinically necessary examinations, fillings, extractions, endodontic treatment and eligible prosthetic treatment. The annual monetary limit is the amount stated in the Particular Conditions, as modified by any effective endorsement.

7.4 Dental exclusions

- Purely cosmetic whitening.
- Jewellery or decorative dental appliances.
- Treatment that was already planned before the policy effective date and was not declared when required.

8. Claims evidence

A claim should include an invoice, treatment date, provider identity and sufficient clinical information to determine eligibility. Nova may request additional evidence where a document is incomplete.

9. Coordination and precedence

Where a schedule, these General Conditions and an endorsement differ, the later valid endorsement prevails only for the clause it expressly modifies. The original clause continues to apply to all other matters.
